DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by '554 to Shapero. Shapero discloses a doll skin (rubber-like label 12) comprising a seamless, molded elastomeric material (column 1 lines 26-31 of the specification), wherein the elastomeric material is a synthetic polymer (latex elastomer, column 2 line 56-58 of the specification). Inasmuch as the skin of Shapero meets all of the structural limitations of the claims, it is inherently capable of performing all of the claimed functions.
3. Claims 1 and 3 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by '249 to Goldfarb. Goldfarb discloses a doll skin (pieces 14) comprising a seamless, molded elastomeric material (column 3 lines 11-13 of the specification), wherein the elastomeric material is a synthetic polymer (styrene), wherein the skin is in a form of an animal (14b, fig 8a). Inasmuch as the skin of Goldfarb meets all of the structural limitations of the claims, it is inherently capable of performing all of the claimed functions.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 4-5 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over '554 to Shapero in view of '804 to Nakashima. Shapero includes all of the limitations as applied to claims above, except for the teaching of the skin being a copolymer. Nakashima teaches a color change material (fig 1) having a reversibly thermochromic layer and a porous layer for use in dolls, doll clothes, and doll accessories. Nakashima further teaches the use of ethylene vinyl acetate copolymer in the material (column 4 lines 30-36 of the specification). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the skin of Shapero with the copolymer of Nakashima for the purpose of providing a more flexible covering for the doll.
6. Claims 4-5 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over '249 to Goldfarb in view of '804 to Nakashima. Goldfarb includes all of the limitations as applied to claims above, except for the teaching of the skin being a copolymer. Nakashima teaches a color change material (fig 1) having a reversibly thermochromic layer and a porous layer for use in dolls, doll clothes, and doll accessories. Nakashima further teaches the use of ethylene vinyl acetate copolymer in the material (column 4 lines 30-36 of the specification). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the skin of Goldfarb with the copolymer of Nakashima for the purpose of providing a more flexible covering for the doll.

7. Claims 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over '554 to Shapero. Shapero discloses a doll's garment (rubber-like label 12) comprising a seamless, molded elastomeric material (column 1 lines 26-31 of the specification), wherein the elastomeric material is a synthetic polymer (latex elastomer, column 2 line 56-58 of the specification). Shapero discloses the claimed invention except for the doll having a height in the range of above 8cm to about 20 cm, as recited in claim 10. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a varying height range, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.
8. Claims 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over '249 to Goldfarb. Goldfarb discloses a doll garment (pieces 14) comprising a seamless, molded elastomeric material (column 3 lines 11-13 of the specification), wherein the elastomeric material is a synthetic polymer (styrene), and further comprises at least one integrally molded detail (tabs 22). Goldfarb discloses the claimed invention except for the doll having a height in the range of above 8cm to about 20 cm, as recited in claim 10. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a varying height range, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 6-8 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
10. Claims 13-18 are allowed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. This is simply art of interest and was not use to reject any claims in this office action.
